

Careers in Sport

Teaching and Coaching – This involves teaching or coaching a range of different ages, from toddlers to the elderly, and abilities, from professionals to amateurs, in physical activity.

Sports Business – They can have creative ideas in order to create their own franchise or product. Alternatively, this can mean advertisement, development or law.

Sports Science – This career path enables you to work alongside professional athletes to reach their maximum health through everyday training.

Sports Media – There are a broad range of jobs within sports media including within radio and television. This is a fast-paced job taking you closer to big sporting events.

Personal Trainer – This involves working closely with people in order for them to reach their health and fitness goals. This can be to lose weight, gain muscle or improve their overall fitness.

Physiotherapist – They use their knowledge to help people with disabilities or injury to gain more movement through physical activity.

